Commodore: Well well, Jack Sparrow, isn't it?

Jack Sparrow: Captain Jack Sparrow, if you please.

Commodore: I don't see your ship, Captain.

Jack Sparrow: I'm in the market as it were...

Soldier 1: He said he'd come to commander one.

Soldier 2: I told you he was telling the truth. These are his Sir... [...]

Commodore: You're with no doubt the worst pirate I've ever heard of.

Jack Sparrow: But you have heard of me.

Elisabeth: Commodore, I really must protest! Pirate or not, this man saved my life.

Commodore: One good deed it's not enough to redeem a man of a lifetime of wickedness.

Jack Sparrow: There seems enough to condemn him

Commodore: Indeed.

Jack Sparrow: Finally.

Elisabeth's father: Nooo! Don't shoot!

"The future of the world lies in its urban environments. More than half the world's population live in cities and that number is growing. This rapid influx of people creates possibility but it also creates challenges. How can the cities of today grow and thrive to become the places we want to live in tomorrow?"

"People ask me... Thor, how can I be like you, the strongest man on earth? Well the answer is just in front of your eyes. Sparkling water. This is my brand: Heavy Bubbles. We have 2 kilos, 5 kilos and 10 kilos. What if I can't carry it? If you can't carry you can't drink. You die. You can even become stronger just by carrying it back home from the supermarket. What if I bought other stuff? Don't buy other stuff. Heavy Bubbles, sparkling water that make you sweat."

"(Presenter: Chris Mitchell) Morocco will not host the Africa Cup of Nations and it will not play for the Cup. Hello, this is 'Sports Today'. CAF, the Confederation of African Football have met in Egypt, considered options for the tournament that was due to be held in Morocco in January, and they have decided in the past hour, by releasing a statement, that Morocco will not host the tournament and will play no part in it. John Bennett is here, our football reporter who have seen the details of the statement. What more do we know? Do we know anymore? (John Bennett) with 67 days to go till the start of the tournament. "(Presenter)... meaning the active 'lying with a person', what word appears on a T-Shirt that warns it often... 'leads to forking': chop sticking, herring knifing, salad tonguing or spooning. (Contestant) So I've been in High School I definitely or when I was in High School I heard a lot of this very often, so... I'm pretty positive with that the answer is D. Spooning. Final answer. (Presenter) That is correct (Applause)"

Chris Fawkes: "Hello there. Our weather turned much colder towards the end of last week. And for the weekend ahead is going to stay on the chilly side. Now, at the moment, we've got a cold front pushing southwards. It's been bringing some rain and hill snow into Scotland. [...] Wherever you are though, it's gonna feel quite chilly this afternoon the temperatures for most of us are around five or six degrees Celsius. Now overnight our week while the front continues its journey southwards, there could be some of spots of light rain or drizzle on this as it pushes into the Midlands. Probably staying quite cloudy in the southwest. Now along this front, there probably be some mist and fog patches but aside from that it's gonna be a very cold night. So widespread frost. Could be one of the coldest nights of the winter so far in northern Scotland, that takes on into..."

Gem: Moss, I got something to tell you.

Moss: Oh my God!

Gem: Wait till I tell you!

Moss: Sorry.

Gem: Where's Roy? He should be here.

Moss: Before you begin, I should tell you that I sometimes have problems processing big news.

Gem: Douglass has asked me to be his PA.

Moss: Oh my God! His PA! Oh my! His PA. Shut up... His PA??

Gem: It means Personal Assistant.

Moss: Thank you. Right. Ok. What does that actually involve?

Gem: Oh you know, picking up his mail, going to the supermarket for him, getting his washing.... I have to say Moss... It's a real step up.

Blade Runner: She's a replicant. Doesn't she?

Eldon Tyrell: I'm impressed. How many questions does it usually take to spot?

BR: 20, 30 cross-referenced.

ET: It took more than a hundred for Rachel, didn't it?

BR: She doesn't know.

ET: She's beginning to suspect, I think.

BR: Suspect? How can it not know what it is?

ET: Commerce is our goal here in Tyrell. "More human than human" is our motto. Rachel is an experiment. Nothing more. We began to recognise in them strange obsessions... after all they are emotionally inexperienced, with only a few years in which to store up the experiences that you and I take for granted. If we gift them with a past, we create a cushion pillow for their emotions and consequently we can control them better...

BR: Memories. You're talking about memories.

Sue Black's inspirational story

When I was 25 I was a single mum with three small children, living on a Council state in Brixton. I decided that something had to change. But what I didn't realise is that by changing my life, I also changed the lives of many other women all around the world.

I woke up one morning in 1987 with my husband screaming that he was going to kill us all. He threatened me before, but I somehow hadn't taken it seriously. But as soon as he threatened my children, I just thought "I'm out of here". So, I got a suitcase, packed up our stuff. I put the twins in the double buggy, got my three-year-old daughter and we ran down the road.

I phoned up women's aid, and a few hours later I was in a refuge on the other side of London. I thought, "So, what am I gonna do now?"

My favourite subject at school was maths. So I enrolled for a maths course at Southwark College. And the first day that I went in, I was so scared. I walked into the classroom and it was full of mainly men in suits. And so basically I was petrified. But I saw a woman sitting at the back of the classroom, went and sat next to her, we became best friends, and in fact we came top of the class at the end of the year. I did a degree in Computing, then went on to do a PhD, and eventually I got an OBE which was amazing.

I was really shy growing up, and I realised that if I wanted to be successful, I was gonna have to change from being a shy 25-year-old who was even scared to even talk to people I didn't know, to someone who was much more confident.

I've got a ritual that I do every time that I'm public speaking. And what I do is... I go into the toilets, and I will say things like positive things to myself. So I'll go "I'm an amazing person, I can do anything I want to do". Or stand in more of a superhero pose. Just going away and doing that means that I go onto the stage feeling very positive and kind of radiating energy.

Last year I was speaking to 17,000 women in tech at a conference in Orlando in Florida, and at the end of my talk I got everyone, so 17,000 women -to say along with me: I'm gonna change the world. And you know what, we can.

Always ask for promotion. If you think you can go for promotion, go for it. Everytime I could apply for promotion I did. In several years I got promoted probably four or five times. And that has actually just massively changed my life and enabled me to affect lots of other people's lives in a positive way too.

I was in a classroom talking to maybe about 15 mums, and as I was talking, I started realising 'Oh my goodness, I'm getting a hot flush, feeling a bit hot'. I couldn't concentrate so I thought ... well so I'm just going to tell everyone what's happening and actually that seemed to help us really bond with each other.

The more that we... kind of... make ourselves vulnerable, talk about things that maybe we wouldn't normally expect to talk about, but just everyday stuff, helps everyone to realise that we are all human and we all go through this.

I've over the years changed myself by pushing myself forward. Going for things that scare me half to death. The main message I would have to anybody is: just get out there and do the things you want to do. You've only got one life. Just go for it."
